

CURRENT TREND: Mixed REASON: Soybeans hang on to gains with crop ratings down, crude oil rallying

FATS & OILS/GRAIN CRUSHINGS @ 2 PM

MORNING TRIVIA: What year did the U.S. completely ban smoking on all domestic and international flights? (hint: round number)

MARKET HEADLINES

- Quick Editorial: soybeans charged out of the gate last night thanks to a surprise two-point ratings decline to close out the key crop development month of August; wheat rallied to fresh move highs in the early morning hours but has taken profits since despite the Black Sea war escalating greatly overnight.
- Jordan is seeking 120k tonnes of wheat in an international tender this morning, with no purchase reported yet but three offers reportedly received.
- Australia's ABARES estimated the country's 2026/27 wheat crop at 29.9 MMT, up by more than 3 MMT from their previous estimate but still 17% below the '25/26 cycle; canola output of 7.3 MMT was raised by over a million tonnes but remains 5% below last season.
- AgResource Brazil yesterday estimated the country's 2026/27 soybean crop at 184.1 MMT, below the USDA's current 186.0 MMT but above the August StoneX Brazil estimate of 183.1 MMT.
- National corn condition ratings steadied this week at 57% good/excellent, down from 69% last year and the 60% five-year average pace; soybean ratings fell 2% to 58% g/ex, below 65% LY and the 59% 5YA figure. Progress ratings of those crops remained generally at or ahead of pace, with corn doughing at 92%, denting at 62%, and maturity at 13%; soybean pod-setting hit 95%, with 13% of the crop dropping leaves. The U.S. spring wheat harvest advanced from 62% to 77% this week, up from 69% LY and the 68% 5YA.
- This afternoon's July USDA soybean crush is expected to come in at 220.1 million bushels, up from 217.8 mbu in June and 205.1 mbu last July. Trade estimates range from 219.0-221.3 million bushels.
- CBOT September Deliveries: corn 187 contracts, with next trade date available 7/24/26; meal 52 and 8/12; Chi wheat 9 and 6/30; KC wheat 60 & 8/28.
- Export Inspections (000 tonnes): This Week / Estimates / Last Week
Corn: 1496.0 / 1150-1250 / 1322.6 Beans: 250.8 / 400-600 / 430.1
Wheat: 430.9 / 250-450 / 432.5

WEATHER UPDATE

- The Plains and Midwest were mostly dry over the past 24 hours; rains will move west to east across the northern belt today and tomorrow and linger in the northern and northeastern Midwest through the end of the week. The heaviest amounts are expected on the MN/IA border into WI. Extended maps keep the heaviest rains in the western U.S. up into mid-September, though some action will creep into the NW belt and Plains, with the south and east drier. Temps are hot this week, still above-normal for the extended periods.
- Argentina will stay mostly dry as rains hold out to the far north over the next ten days; Brazil saw heavy rains in the southeast and action will spread from there into the heart of growing areas over the next ten days, aiding moisture for wheat and early oncoming soybean planting.

FUNDAMENTAL UPDATE

National soybean ratings declined for the fourth straight week during the key month of August, now down to 58% good/excellent; that's down in five of the last six weeks from late-July highs at 66% g/ex. That's well below each of the last two seasons (both at 65% g/ex this week) but above all the three prior to that. Like corn, Iowa remains the best-rated major soybean-producing state by a mile at 77% g/ex, though the entire ECB (IL/IN/OH) remain above last year.
