Black Sea escalations continue heading into the weekend

CFTC REPORTS @ 2:30 PMMORNING TRIVIA: Name two of the three longest-tenured cast members in Saturday Night Live history...MARKET HEADLINES

- Quick Editorial: The grains and oilseeds are resuming their surge higher, with strong gains across the board as escalations between Russia and Ukraine show no signs of slowing following a ramp-up in strikes from both sides and Russian drones crossing into Moldovan airspace amid their renewed targeting of Ukraine's overland infrastructure in an attempt to cut off all export ability.
- China's Sinograin today announced plans to auction 68k MT of imported soybeans on 9/2, continuing to make space for incoming U.S. soybeans this fall.
- Reuters is reporting Russian domestic grain prices falling 36% due to the inability to ship, continuing to raise concerns of notable drops in winter wheat planting this fall in both Russia & Ukraine.
- Jordan made no purchase in their 120k-tonne international milling wheat yesterday, despite fielding offers from three trading companies. They issued a tender for the same volume of feed barley for Oct shipment today, with a deadline for offers of 9/2.
- Tunisia bought 125k tonnes of soft wheat and 75k tonnes of feed barley in an international tender yesterday morning.
- The European Commission yesterday cut their 2026/27 wheat production estimate from 124.4 to 124.2 MMT, with exports steady at 29.0 MMT this month; wheat ending stocks fell from 12.9 to 11.3 MMT. Corn output dropped from 51.9 to 50.1 MMT, with imports up a million tonnes this month to 25.0 MMT. 2026/27 E.U. soybean imports also rose from late July, from 13.9 to 14.5 MMT.

WEATHER UPDATE

- Portions of the Plains caught some more rains over the last 24 hours, with a small system working its way across the TX/OK panhandles this morning. Another system is moving across western/central ND and portions of the southern Canadian prairies; it will be interesting to see if it loses steam before reaching the eastern side of the state to benefit some late-filling soybeans.
- Southern Argentina caught some localized heavy totals, adding to wetness there, while portions of far southern and southeastern Brazil got in on the action as well; the rest of the country looks to stay dry near-term, continuing to reflect a very stereotypical El Niño pattern.

FUNDAMENTAL UPDATE

It may not look like much, but old-crop (2025/26) U.S. corn and soy exports continue to show small net positive weekly figures with only a week and a half left to go in the marketing year—only 1.2 mbu of corn and 2.7 mbu of beans this week, but those compare to net negatives for both on the same week last season. Both corn sales and shipments are more than 100 mbu ahead of the USDA YoY estimate, with bean sales and shipments +30 mbu vs the USDA guess.
